FOREWORD

Nothing can be more beautiful, more enjoyable, nor more difficult as the transition from adolescence to early adulthood.

Just as we, the seniors, have undergone growth, socially, academically and culturally from our freshman to senior years, so have we witnessed the transformation of a great institution. As freshmen we entered an institution newly transformed from a Teachers College to a State College. As seniors we are departing from the magnificent Winston-Salem State University.

As a child matures he changes in many ways but his basic ideals and goals remain the same. Although State underwent transformation, her aims and goals are still based on that profound motto: "Enter To Learn, Depart to Serve."

We as members of the senior class of 1970 are witnesses to the transformations that have taken place during the four years, both within ourselves and the institution. The instructors are the prosecuting attorneys for they questioned and challenged every phase of our growth. We, the seniors, are the defendants guilty as charged of being exposed to the knowledge that will enable us to enhance our lives as well as the lives of others. Society is the jury because it is in society that the verdict for the Black man lies.

"Power compromises only with other powers. The basis of equality, therefore, is summed up in a people's ability to create that ECONOMIC POWER BASE necessary (for them) to independently interact from a position of power, thus equality. This power is not given, nor is it graciously shared. Politics control everything. But Economics control politics."—RJC

DEDICATION

We, the members of the senior class, proudly dedicate this book to Mr. Robert Cummings as a token of our appreciation and gratitude for his services rendered to us. For your kindness, assistance, understanding and unselfish devotion, Mr. Cummings, we thank you.

Mr. Robert J. Cummings

The President's Reception

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Congratulations to all of you in completing your college education. The years have passed and we close the doors on one phase of life to enter into a vast unsettled world; a world of war and peace, of hatred and love, of failure and success, of crisis and decision.

We are the sole ones to determine our fate. We draw upon the knowledge, insight and maturity which we have gained at Winston-Salem State University in molding our own futures.

Our only hope is that we may make the right decisions.

PRESIDENT

James R. Williams

"Better a hundred times an honest administration of an erroneous policy than a corrupt administration of a good one."

I am carving God in night,
I am painting Hell in white.
I am the smoke king,
I am black.

W. E. B. DuBois

I came as a shadow,
I stand now a light;
The depth of my darkness
Transfigures your night.

My soul is a nocturne
Each note is a star;
The light will not blind you
So look where you are.

The radiance is soothing,
There's warmth in the light.
I came as a shadow,
To dazzle your night!

I am darkening with song,
I am hearkening to wrong;
I will be black as blackness can,
The blacker the mantle the mightier the
man,
My purpl'ing midnights no day dawn may ban.

W. E. B. DuBois

He who has rolled his pants up to his knee
And walked a lowland creek from bank to bank
Has mixed his pulse with that of land and sea.
And though, in after days, he cross his streams
By bridge or log, he'll always feel its beat
Against his body, even in his dreams.

To climb a hill that hungers for the sky,
To dig my hands wrist-deep in pregnant earth,
To watch a young bird, veering, learn to fly,
To give a still, stark poem shining birth.

To hear the rain drool, dimpling, down the drain
And splash with a wet giggle in the street,
To ramble in the twilight after supper,
And to count the pretty faces that you meet.

To ride the town on trolleys, crowded, teeming
With joy and hurry and laughter and push and sweat-
Squeezed next a patent-leather Negro dreaming
Of a wrinkle river and minnow net.

To buy a paper from a breathless boy,
And read of kings and queens in foreign lands,
Hyperbole of romance and adventure,
All for a penny the color of my hand.

To lean against a strong tree's bosom, sentiment
And hushed before the silent prayer it breathes
To melt the still snow with my seething body
And kiss the warm earth tremulous underneath.

Ah, life, to let your stabbing beauty pierce me
And wound me like we did the studded Christ,
To grapple with you, loving you too fiercely,
And to die bleeding-consummate with Life.

ANNUAL FEED THE POOR CAMPAIGN

DINNER AT THE PRESIDENT'S HOUSE

Winston-Salem State University Majorettes

You have not heard my love's dark throat
Slow-fluting like a reed,
Release the perfect golden note
She caged there for my need.

Her walk is like the replica
Of some barbaric dance,
Wherein the soul of Africa
Is winged with arrogance.

And yet so light she steps across
The ways her sure feet pass,
She does not dent the smoothest moss
Or bend the thinnest grass.

My love is dark as your is fair
Yet lovelier I hold her
Than listless maids with pallid hair
And blood that's thin and colder.

You-proud-and-to-be-pitied one,
Gaze on her and despair;
Then seal your lips until the sun
Discovers one as fair.

EDITOR'S MESSAGE

Winston-Salem State University is in the midst of transition. The members of the RAM staff struggled to reveal this transition in the pages of this book. The school year of 1969-70 is our first year as a university.

In the months between September and March the administration, faculty, and student body have undergone changes. To reflect a portion of our great transition, the staff has used white on black in certain sections of this edition. The emphasis is to move from the traditional way of thinking for Blacks. The members of the RAM staff have tried to reveal the University's movement from "coloredness" to Blackness.

My appreciation goes to the RAM staff members who were untiring in their efforts to put together the many small pieces of this large puzzle. Since we were inexperienced we faced many trying situations. We worked under pressure, worry, and responsibility hoping to produce an annual that we can cherish.

As editor I wish to especially acknowledge Glenda Sims, Gail Owens, Lottie Robinson, Jessie Hailey, and Fred Mizzell who were ever ready to work; Frances Riddick, Josephine Waiters, and Sara Horne (my supporting suitemates), who stayed with me near the deadlines; Rhea Hunting who was always there when the typing piled up; Ed Backmon and Edward Lewis, our patient and skilled photographers; Jacquelyn Taylor and Vincent Parker, two great artists, and our advisor, Mrs. Constance Johnson, who was our source of strength.

To these special members of the RAM Staff, I say with relief and happiness—We Did It!!

APPRECIATION

Our years of transition at WSSU are now coming to an end, but this past year has been most fulfilling. For this inspiration and many irreplaceable services, we extend our feelings of thankful appreciation to Mrs. Constance Johnson, a human jewel.

Mrs. Constance Johnson

It is impossible for us to truly express our gratitude for the priceless assistance of this fine lady.

Mrs. Shewmake has aided us in solving many problems we otherwise could not have done. To her we offer our thanks.

A CLUTTERED DESK?

Jim Mack, president of B & C Associates, Inc. a nationally known public relations firm says "yes." "B & C Associates, Inc. serves some of the largest companies in this country. Robert J. Brown, founder and now Special Assistant to President Nixon, was a working president and I feel that the legacy which I inherited is tantamount to success. I don't feel that a clean desk is that important and neither did R.J.B. If you are interested in creating cluttered desks and success stories, then I suggest you write me."
